FOREWORD

The Agrarian Research and Training Institute Library specialises in the collection of material relevant to the various disciplines related to the agrarian sector. The Institute during the last three years built up its collection of books, journals and other documents on the basis of the specialised disciplines represented in it. It is also developing a separate Sri Lanka section on agrarian subjects. Books and other documents have been purchased locally as well as from abroad. The FAO has contributed to the purchase of books and documents from abroad in addition to providing Microfiche equipment including Microfiche readers. Literature has also been forthcoming on an exchange basis from similar institutions abroad. When the institute was incorporated as a statutory body in 1972 the total number of books in the Library was 254. I am happy that within the last three years the collection has increased to approximately 3,500 volumes.

Due to the absence of a qualified Librarian for over 2½ years, the Institute had been handicapped in preparing a complete catalogue which could be used as a reference document by both the research staff within the Institute and outside. About two months ago the Institute decided to obtain the assistance of the Librarian of the Vidyodaya Campus, Mr. W. B. Dorakumbura as a consultant for developing the Library. The Institute is grateful to Mr. Dorakumbura for services rendered in an honorary capacity and for making available the services of Mr. A. P. G. Leelaratne of the Vidyodaya Campus Library for the preparation of the catalogue. Mr. Leelaratne together with the Institute's Librarian, Mr. W. Ranasinghe and the Library Assistant Miss C. Gunatunga, have worked very hard during the last three weeks to complete the catalogue. This catalogue contains a comprehensive bibliographical listing of documents available with the Institute up to 31 July 1975. It is hoped to up-date and issue supplements periodically when new acquisitions are made.

I would like to take this opportunity to thank Miss Carol Schneider of the FAO, Rome, for the valuable suggestions and assistance given in the preparation of the catalogue during the short period she happened to be in Sri Lanka in mid-August 1975.

INTRODUCTION

The present catalogue contains almost all the research material acquired to the Library of the Agrarian Research and Training Institute as at 31 July 1975.

The Library collection, comprising some 3,500 titles, is made up of books, reports, off-prints and specialised research material. In the catalogue, these are arranged under two main collections:

1. The General Collection, and
2. The Sri Lanka Collection

The material in the General Collection are categorised under the main disciplines specialised at the Institute, within which they are classified by U.D.C. (BS 1000 A: 1961). The Sri Lanka Collection, comprising all the documents that have any bearing on Sri Lanka, is classified by U.D.C. in a single strict sequence. Although the Anglo-American Cataloguing Rules were carefully observed throughout the catalogue, it was found expedient to depart from the AACR prescriptions in a few instances.

For reasons of economy, the economic and development aspects of specific food crops are, generally, brought together under the Agriculture aspect, e.g. all the material on rice are found grouped under the main discipline, AGRICULTURE: SCIENCE AND PRACTICE - 633.13 RICE, except for a few documents which displayed a heavy bias towards another discipline such as DEVELOPMENT ECONOMICS or MARKETING. Such inevitable shortcomings of the printed catalogue would, it is hoped, be reduced to the minimum once the classified card catalogue of the Library is organised, wherein all the various facets of a specific subject could be brought to light.

The entire project was carried out under the supervision of my chief, Mr. W. B. Dorakumbure, Librarian of the Vidyodaya Campus Library, University of Sri Lanka, without whose guidance the work would have been very difficult. I am also indebted to the Director of the ARTI Mr. C. Marayanasamy, the FAO Chief Advisor, Mr.F.G. Saunders and Mr. E.H. Dissanayake, the Registrar of the Institute, for their valued assistance and co-operation in the compilation of the catalogue. My grateful thanks are also due to Miss Carol Schneider, Librarian of the Reference and Documentation Division, FAO, who spent most of the time of her short stay in Sri Lanka, in solving some of the intricate problems that arose in regard to the classification of a large number of material.

It must be said, by way of apology, that the compiler and the typing staff had to work to an extremely tight schedule of just three weeks, and that a few errors are observed to have found their way into the classified and alphabetic arrangement of the catalogue.

I am much indebted to Mr.W.Ranasinghe, Librarian of the Institute, and Miss Chandra Gunatunge, Library Assistant, for their kind co-operation and ungrudging assistance.

Lastly, my thanks are due to Miss Maureen Siegertsz, Mr.Z.A.Hamid, Miss Vasantha Joseph and Mrs.Lorraine Witharane for their excellent typing work.
